Taylor, Smith capture congressional nominations

By ELLIS CUEVAS
Hancock County voters Tuesday strongly favored State Senator Gene Taylor of Bay St. Louis as the Democratic nominee and Harrison County Sheriff Larkin Smith of Gulfport as the Republican nominee to fill the seat of U.S. Fifth Congressional District Representative Trent Lott.

Taylor and Smith will vie in the Nov. 8 General Election. In unofficial returns in Tuesday's Second Primary, Taylor edged Forest County District Attorney Glenn White of Hattiesburg 18,152 to 13,263, while Smith defeated George Robert Hall, also of Hattiesburg, 25,404 to 12,528 for the respective party nominations.

Hancock County unofficial returns show Smith tallied 1,062 to Hall's 284; Taylor received 2,290 to White's 293 votes.

Both the Democratic and Republican Executive Committees have nine affidavit ballots they plan to review Thursday.

Taylor and Smith will be joined on the ballot in November by Independent candidate John Netto of Gulfport.

Lott, a Republican, will face Democratic U.S. Congressman Wayne Dowdy in the General Election for United States Senator John Stennis' seat.

Former Attorney General Ed Pittman defeated Laurel attorney Jon Swartzfager for the Democratic nomination for a vacant seat in the Mississippi Supreme Court's Southern District.

Unofficial returns in the 27-county district gave Pittman 43,489 votes to Swartzfager's 27,246.

In Hancock County Pittman garnered an almost 1,000 vote margin over Swartzfager—1,739 to 771.

Pittman will face Republican John Henry Crouch of Long Beach in the November General Election.

Unofficial returns for Hancock County's 26 precincts are published on Page 11-A of this issue.

Verbal approval obtained for four-laning extension

BY DENA BISNETTE
The State Highway Department has approved an extension of the Highway 603 four-laning project to Stennis Airport, where the county's new junior-senior high school complex will be located.

Hancock County Superintendent of Education Terrell Randolph appeared before the Hancock County Board of Supervisors Wednesday to tell them that he had received verbal approval for the extension from Rick Turner, a highway department engineer.

Randolph had appeared before the board last month to request a resolution asking for the extension of the project to the airport in order to accommodate traffic to the new school.

He had received unanimous approval from the supervisors, although he learned Wednesday that the resolution had not yet reached the highway department.

In addition, he has asked the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission, which operates Stennis Airport and can also benefit from the extension, for a resolution supporting his request.

The highway department had announced at a public hearing in February that the highway will be widened and four-laned from US-90 to Interstate 10.

Citizens at the public hearing had asked that the four-laning be extended to the junction of Highway 603 and Highway 43 in Kiln, but were told at the time that the highway department had no funding or plans for that area.

Randolph stated that Turner and Joe Davis, the engineer for the highway department's Hattiesburg Division, had told him that the four-laning would extend about 1,500 feet north of the intersection to avoid having traffic merging right in front of the airport entrance.

The superintendent said his most recent contact with Turner was Wednesday morning.

The bids for construction of the new school complex will be taken by the Hancock County School Board in August.

Groundwork will be advertised as a separate project and will be bid in April or early May, Randolph said.

The site for the school is adjacent to the Stennis Airpark property and is across an airport industrial park road from the existing vocational-technical school being operated through an agreement between the Hancock County School District and Pearl River Junior College.

Randolph also said he needs information regarding a timetable on the 603 project and when the port and harbor commission office will be moved from its present quarters behind Waveland Resort Inn at US-90 and Highway 603 to the administration building at Stennis, where the school district offices are leasing space.

The widening of the highway will displace the trailer housing the commission offices, and the commission has been considering moving to the airport administration building because that facility is already property of the commission.

The bond issue for the new school included no money for district administration offices, Randolph has said. Because the county is obligated by law to provide facilities for the school district offices, the county would have to pay for construction of such a building.

The most recent timetable that the highway department has given for the Highway 603 project is for right-of-way acquisition, which is expected to begin in July and take about one year.

The board took Randolph's request regarding the move under advisement until more information can be obtained.

ROAD CLOSED, states a sign at a box culvert on Beach Road in front of Buccaneer State Park. The steel-reinforced concrete box culvert at Sand Bayou is the first of four scheduled for removal and replacement in a $412,578 contract between the Hancock County Board of Supervisors and J.H. Moon Construction of Ridgeland.

Park manager Greg Smith said traffic to the park is being rerouted for the duration of the project, which is expected to take about 30 days. County Engineer Larry Seal said demolition of the existing culvert is starting this week. (Staff photo by Dena Bisnette)

County reviewing hospital building purchase offer

BY DENA BISNETTE
The Hancock County Board of Supervisors has been offered $300,000 for the vacant Hancock General Hospital building, but two board members say the offer is not high enough.

Barbara Stewart of Commercial Realty Associates in Gulfport presented the offer from a Louisiana firm to the board on Wednesday.

The building, vacated in February when the hospital moved to new quarters in Hancock Medical Center, has been unsuccessfully offered for sale several times after two attempts to attract bids failed during the prior board of supervisors' administration.

The supervisors had considered using the building for offices for several county agencies, most notably the county welfare department, but each time the matter was discussed one or more board members made unfavorable comments about the condition of the old hospital, particularly with regard to water damage from a leaking roof and to climate control systems they said needed to be replaced.

The offer from Gulf South Medical Enterprises of Mandeville, La., is for the old hospital building, about 12 acres of property, the former county home building now housing the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service offices and a metal building behind the hospital which is now being used as a warehouse for the county health department's Women, Infants and Children nutrition program.

HOME DESTROYED—Flames eat away at the upper section of the home of the Leon Russo family on 15th Street in Shoreline Park Sunday night. The fire, currently under investigation by County Fire Marshal Jay Marsh, started at about 11 p.m. Sunday and rendered the house a total loss. All five of the residents, Leon Russo, his wife Bessie Russo and their sons, C.O. Russo, John Russo and Tony Russo, were home when the fire began in a front bedroom on the left side of the photograph. They escaped the blaze unharmed, Marsh said. The fire marshal said a neighbor, Jonathan Moran, spotted the blaze from across the bayou, reported it and then assisted the family by bringing to safety two vehicles that had been parked under the house. Marsh said that the fire started in the front bedroom, spread to the living room and then to the kitchen. Marsh said the cause of the blaze has not yet been determined. POST OFFICE POTPOURRI

By TOM HILL
Postmaster,
Bay St. Louis

By Tom Hill, Postmaster
Bay St. Louis

Finally, we are in our new Post Office! It took a little longer than we had planned, but I think you will agree that it was well worth the wait.

We have not yet received all of the equipment that we have ordered, but we have received notice that the rest of it is either on its way, or is on backorder and will be shipped as soon as it is available.

The item that most of our customers have asked about is the large bronze plaque with the Postal Service Eagle on it that belongs on the front of the building. I don't know what the problem is, but I have received two notices that it has been ordered and is due to arrive soon.

Our customers have all (with very few exceptions) been very pleased with the new facility here on Highway 90, and some seemed to be almost overwhelmed by the size and the beauty of the structure and the Oak-shaded spacious parking area.

Some have asked "Why so large a building?" but if you have read the recent issue of the Sea Coast Echo which featured the progress and growth of Hancock County then you should know that it will be only a few years before this building will begin filling up.

Keesler gate closed temporarily

Gate 1 along Forest Avenue will temporarily close due to road construction, according to base officials. Closed to all traffic beginning March 28, the gate is expected to open sometime in June, according to construction personnel.

All other gates will be open to authorized vehicles.

Base officials remind visitors to the base that they must use Gate 3 and check into the new visitors center.

"Vehicles without proper military registration decals will be required to enter through Gate 3," said Chief Master Sgt. Richard Johnson, superintendent, 3380th Security Police Squadron.

The building was built according to the projected needs of the community in 25 years.

As most of our customers know by now, we have also opened an additional post office facility to serve our downtown area customers. It is located at 203 North Second St. and is managed by Mrs. Juanita Shubert.

All postal services and lockbox rental are available at this station, however postage meters and permit imprint bulk mailings will have to be brought to the Main Post Office for acceptance.

Our customers have expressed nothing but satisfaction with our new station and we all feel proud that Mrs. Shubert is doing such an outstanding job.

She has put in many hours of her own time (and some of her family's time) in preparing and maintaining the facility and in distributing the mail.

We also want to thank our customers for their patience and understanding during this time of transition from the old post office to the two new facilities.

We did experience some problems, but have been able to solve most of them.

Please let us know what we can do to better serve you.

We want to mention also that the post office is still open on Coleman Avenue in Waveland. Although the carriers have been relocated to the new Bay St. Louis Main Post Office on the highway, all other postal services and lockbox rental is available there, also.

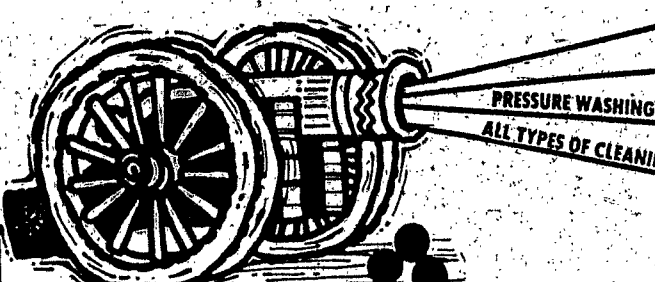

Bay St. Louis Main Office, Tom Hill, Postmaster, 1200 Highway 90, Phone: 467-5788. Open 8:30 a.m. - 5 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday and 8:30 a.m. to noon Saturday and Wednesday.

Downtown Station, Juanita Shubert, Manager, 203 North 2nd Street, Phone: 467-6550. Open 9 to 11 a.m. and noon to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Waveland Post Office, Walter Turcotte, Postmaster, 212 Coleman Avenue, Phone: 467-6921. Open 8:30 a.m. to noon and 1:15 to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and 9 to 11 a.m. Saturday.

Please clip out this schedule and save it for future reference.

Eggs, the symbol of Spring and rebirth from earliest times, were viewed by the early Christians as a mark of the Resurrection, and were a very important part of the Easter feast, as eggs were forbidden during Lent.

Spring is a happy time for people of all faiths, as Christians celebrate the Resurrection, and those of the Jewish faith celebrate Passover—as religion and nature come together in glorious rebirth.

The ancient Persians, history tells us, were the first to dye eggs in bright colors, and the Egyptians and Chinese followed suit, brightening up their festivals of Spring, symbolizing new life.

And, I think that it was in the late thirteenth century that King Edward I of England commanded that 400 eggs be boiled, then covered in gold leaf, so he might present them to his household staff at Easter!

Well, I'm certainly not expecting any gold leaf eggs in my Easter basket, are you? So, we'll settle for brightly-dyed, hard-cooked eggs along with chocolate ones I suppose.

And, if the little ones are wondering why the Easter bunny hauls around eggs in baskets like no other self-respecting rabbit would, just tell them this tale:

Easter, the goddess of Spring, according to ancient and oft told tales, one day long ago, in a whimsical mood and in an effort to amuse some little children, changed her pet bird into a rabbit—and that's why the Easter bunny builds nests and fills them with Easter eggs.

Another legend tells of a poor widow long ago, with nothing much to give her children, so she hid the eggs and, when a rabbit hopped across to the woods, she told the delighted children that the bunny had brought them.

All of which leads us to the question—what do you do with all those brightly colored eggs after the Easter Egg Hunt ends? I usually refrigerate them tossing out, of course, any which are cracked up or stepped upon or half-munched, and make:

CAJUN EGGS

(I've also heard these called Scotch Eggs)

6 hard-cooked eggs, well chilled
3/4 to 1 lb. Cajun or other bulk sausage

2 beaten eggs
1/2 cup flour
1 cup seasoned bread crumbs
Black pepper, hot pepper sauce, salt if desired

Wrap the sausage around each egg. (You might want to form the sausage into six sort-of-round patties before doing so, to make it a bit easier). Dip the sausage-covered eggs into flour, then into the beaten egg, and finally into the crumbs.

Then, let them rest several hours or so in the refrigerator, to make the coating adhere well. (This is a must for all breaded foods, else your coating will probably come off in the skillet).

Fry in hot, deep fat for 10 minutes or so, until you're sure the sausage is cooked fully. Drain well. Serve whole or cut in half, or even in quarters for appetizers. (Six appetizer servings, unless I'm around).

This year the onset of Daylight Saving Time will be this weekend, the first Sunday of April. Congress made the change from the last Sunday of April to the first Sunday.

In other words, we have to set our clocks ahead one hour on Saturday night when we retire.

We know that Easter is one of two days of the year when churches have their largest numbers in attendance, so we hope everyone will change their clocks accordingly.

Community Easter Sunrise Services sponsored by the Area Ministers Association will be at 6:30 a.m. on Sunday on the front lawn of Christ Episcopal Church, 912, S. Beach Blvd., Bay St. Louis.

Coffee and donuts will be served in Virginia Hall following the service compliments of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce.

It is hoped there will be a large attendance for the Sunrise Services.

In case you are an early riser today, don't forget the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's State of the Community Breakfast Meeting this morning at the Wheel Inn Restaurant at 7:30 a.m. It will be a good time to hear discussion on county and city problems, and objectives for 1988. We hope to see you there.

Parents, you may not want to forget the Hancock County Youth Center Commission's Easter Egg Hunt on Saturday at 2 p.m. at City Hall Park in Bay St. Louis.

The Easter Egg Hunt is for boys and girls age six and under.

Mississippi hosts a displeased visitor

The airline passenger was visibly angry.

His plane was landing in Jackson, Mississippi, and he was on a trip he didn't want to make.

He was a Cincinnati businessman, on his way to Mississippi to testify in a liability lawsuit.

The circumstances of the alleged injury had nothing to do with Mississippi.

The defendant company was headquartered in Cincinnati; the event which prompted the lawsuit had occurred in Galveston, Texas.

The defendant was coming to Mississippi for one reason. The statute of limitations had expired in Texas; the suit could not be filed there. The plaintiff found Mississippi in his search for a state where the lawsuit could be filed.

The suit, in fact, had been filed on day before the statute expired in Mississippi. The statute of limitations in Mississippi is six years; the suit was filed five years and 364 days after the event.

The suit could be filed in Mississippi because the company did business in this state, and because the state has a lengthy statute of limitations.

So, this businessman, whose company does business in this state, has strong and angry feelings about Mississippi.

Ironically, less than five days before this businessman flew into Mississippi, the state's House of Representatives had rejected legislation which would have barred the filing of out-of-state lawsuits in Mississippi when the statute of limitations had expired in other states.

So Mississippi's court system, funded by Mississippi taxpayers, will continue to serve as a "dumping ground" for lawsuits which can't be filed in other states.

And, Mississippi's business climate will continue to decline.

News from the Capitol City

By Ellen Ann Fentress

The top action in the Mississippi Legislature last week came from the Senate, where senators spent the last few hours before weekend adjournment adding their mark to one of the top issues of the session: raising teacher pay.

Teachers would still get their salaries raised to the Southeastern average, but the increase would be phased in more gradually under the Senate plan than in the proposals of the state House of Representatives and Gov. Ray Mabus.

Also last week, the House agreed with the Senate to abolish the state Board of Corrections, a move which Mabus believes will give his administration a more direct line of control over the department.

In the Senate, a House-passed bill to allow offshore gambling on cruise ships bit the dust in the Senate Finance Committee.

The next major step for the teacher pay raise bill is for the House to either accept the Senate changes in the bill or ask for joint House-Senate negotiation to draft a compromise plan.

Under the Senate plan, the raise would begin for Mississippi teachers in January 1989, meaning an average $2,200 increase for teachers in the next school year. The following year, teachers would receive the full $3,700 pay raise called for by Mabus. The Senate plan would cost $66.2 million to the state in the next fiscal year.

The Senate, House and Mabus plans all would cost $119 million the following year when the entire $3,700 raise was in place.

Both Mabus and the Mississippi Association of Educators have objected to the Senate version of the pay raise as not going far enough.

The House proposed beginning the pay raise in November 1988, while Mabus proposed starting the raise in September.

The House plan would cost $93 million in the first year, while Mabus' proposal would cost $119 million in the first year.

The less expensive Senate phase in of the raises won after senators first rejected going along with an earlier November start-up 22-24 and a September start-up 17-29. Senators agreed to adopt their own plan on a 30-19 vote.

Meanwhile, Mabus won a battle in the House before weekend adjournment as well, with representatives agreeing 78-40 with the governor's push to abolish the state Board of Corrections. The Senate voted to abolish the board on a 45-5 vote in mid-March.

Mabus wants the board abolished so that the governor's office is in direct control of the state Department of Corrections instead of the commission. The seven-member corrections board was established in 1976 as a move to insulate corrections from politics.

A measure that met rejection last week was a House-passed bill to legalize casino gambling on cruise ships operating in the Mississippi Sound. The Senate Finance Committee defeated the proposal 13-6, preventing its reaching the Senate floor.

The bill would benefit the Europa Star, a 167-foot cruise ship which has operated a gambling "cruise to nowhere" of the Mississippi Coast since Dec. 19.

Supporters of the plan, including Biloxi Mayor Gerald Blessey, believe it would help revive tourism on the Coast, which has been suffering losses to neighboring states. Opponents, however, complain gambling is not the solution to the ailing tourism industry on the Coast. They also criticized the bill for omitting any taxing provision to allow government to reap a benefit from allowing gambling and for failing to create a regulatory authority to monitor any legalized gambling, such as a gaming commission.

The Mississippi Legislature faces another major deadline this Thursday, when revenue and appropriation bills must receive floor consideration in either the House or Senate to survive.

House

SB 2928. The House voted 78-40 to abolish the state Board of Corrections, giving the governor direct control of corrections supervision. Compretta, yea.

Senate

HB 601. Committee Amendment 1. The Senate voted 30-19 to approve their more gradual phase in of a $3,700 pay raise for Mississippi teachers. Taylor, nay; Tate, nay.

HB 601. Amendment 6 to Committee Amendment 1. The Senate rejected 17-29 implementing the teacher pay raise in September 1988 instead of January 1989. Taylor, yea; Tate, yea.

HB 601. Amendment 7 to Committee Amendment 1. The Senate also rejected 22-24 implementing the raise in November 1988 instead of January 1989. Taylor, yea; Tate, yea.

Trade, upcoming summit, and INF update

By RONALD REAGAN

The cause of peace among nations was at the top of our work agenda here in Washington recently as I received Soviet Foreign Minister Shevardnadze at the White House. My talks with him were cordial but, as you might expect, to the point.

During Mr. Shevardnadze's stay, I announced May 29 through June 2 as the dates for my summit meeting in Moscow with the leader of the Soviet Union, General Secretary Gorbachev.

This was good news. The last U.S.-Soviet summit in the U.S.S.R. was 14 years ago; so this meeting will give me and, in a sense, you, the American people, an opportunity to convey the message of peace and freedom to the Soviet people.

But let me also say that while lengthy talks held between Secretary Shultz and Mr. Shevardnadze at the State Department were useful, they also made clear how difficult the issues are between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Some progress was made here and there in various areas. But there is much more that needs to be done, given the importance of the topics discussed.

Our agenda with the Soviet Union deals not only with arms reductions, but also regional matters, human rights, and people-to-people exchanges.

And as our discussions continue in each of these areas, I can assure you that the United States will sign only those agreements that are in our best interest.

Let me also assure you, as negotiations continue on efforts to further reduce U.S. and Soviet strategic nuclear arms, that my Administration will carefully review such proposals.

Still, we have come a long way in our attempts to deal with the Soviets and to further the cause of peace and freedom around the world. The next summit will help. How much? We will have to see.

An important accomplishment of the first few summits is the INF Treaty on Intermediate-Range Nuclear Forces that Mr. Gorbachev and I signed when he was here for the Washington summit last December. I am hopeful the Senate will, as it exercises its constitutional duty, speedily approve what amounts to the first real nuclear arms reductions ever achieved.

Some of you have heard me say before that our progress with the Soviets is based on their awareness that we have no illusions about them and on our determination to deal from a position of strength.

That strength means, of course, keeping our defenses ready and second to none; but it also means a strong and vigorous economy and a place for America as the world leader in trade.

That is another matter that is being considered in Congress that is of critical importance: the legislative conference on trade legislation.

Last year, there was trade legislation coming through the Congress that would have meant serious risks to America's prosperity and, indeed, the world's. Fortunately, working with our Administration, Congress has made some progress in producing a sounder bit of legislation.

My hope is that the Congress will stay on course and that we will settle on a bill that avoids the great danger of choking off international trade and slowing down economic growth. I will not sign a bill that imperils our economy and threatens growth.

And, by the way, that economic growth keeps coming right along. Recently we heard that the GNP growth for last year was four percent. This was higher than our own expectations; expectations that were criticized as too rosy a scenario when we first made them.

The rosy scenario was even rosier than the one critics were down on. It just shows what can happen when spending and taxes are held down and trade is encouraged.

In fact, right now much of our economy is being driven by the growth in exports that had trade legislation would discourage.

Eyes on Mississippi

By Bill Minor

JACKSON—If the Mabus Administration wants to tackle issues that long have been avoided, there's a ready-made one in the inequity of the tax burden as it affects those least able to pay.

For years, lawmakers who cared to find out have known that the state tax structure with its heavy reliance on the general sales tax, and a population with a high incidence of poor people has produced a gross imbalance in the tax burden.

That was graphically illustrated last week in a study released by a Washington-based private tax research organization that showed the sales tax burden on a poor family in Mississippi is the highest in the nation.

In Mississippi, said the report by Citizens for Tax Justice, a family with an income of $8,581 (the average for the lowest income group) pays 9.6 percent of its income in sales taxes or consumer excise taxes, more than any other state.

The Mississippi sales tax burden on the poor, according to the report, was almost seven times as great as the burden on the top income families.

Also, Mississippi poor paid almost twice the amount of sales taxes as the poor in the rest of the nation.

As borne out by the Citizens for Tax Justice study, the states with the most onerous burden on the poor are those where the sales tax is levied on food purchased at the grocery store.

Even though Mississippi's 6 percent sales tax rate is not the highest in the nation, the fact that this state applies the full rate to every food from babies' milk to sirloin steak is what has always taken a bigger chunk out of the consumer's dollar.

Many states either exempt groceries from the sales tax or apply only a part of the sales tax. Louisiana, for example has exempted food from the state's 4 percent sales tax up until a year or so ago, when it put a 1 percent rate on food.

The Washington-based group had pointed out in its study that an alternative solution for states to offset the heavier sales tax burden on the poor would be to rely more on the income tax as a source of revenue, or to grant sales tax rebates to low income persons.

Mississippi is a prime example of a state which has shifted the heaviest tax burden to the sales tax, while placing a much lighter burden on personal and corporate income taxpayers.

This point is illustrated in a recent report prepared by the staff of the legislative Performance Evaluation and Expenditure Review committee (PEER) outlining fiscal options available to the legislature.

While not advocating any particular tax policy, the PEER staff report refers to what the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations annually reports as the "tax capacity" and the "tax effort" of each state.

Tax capacity is described as the state's tax base relative to the base of other states, and the nation as a whole. Tax effort is what the state is collecting in taxes relative to its capacity.

Mississippi in 1984, according to the ACIR, had a per capita sales tax capacity of 70 percent of the national index. Yet, the report showed, Mississippi had a sales tax effort of 149 percent of its capacity.

This indicated that the state was levying twice the amount of sales taxes as its capacity.

Yet on personal income taxes, the ACIR report showed, the state was collecting only 69 percent of its tax capacity, relative to what Mississippians are paying in federal income taxes.

In corporate taxes, the state was collecting 84 percent of its tax capacity based on corporate profits.

The indication here, then, is that Mississippi's income tax burden is relatively lower in comparison to the rest of the nation, while the state's sales tax burden is substantially higher.

While it has been talked about by several governors and Legislatures for years, no real effort to equalize the tax burden in Mississippi has ever been made since the state enacted the general sales tax 56 years ago.

The prognosis is that it would lead to lowering the sales tax rate, or giving exemptions on essentials, and offsetting the loss of revenue by putting more income taxes on those with greater ability to pay.

That would upset some vested interests in the state, and not a lot of lawmakers are willing to do that.

SIX ASTRONAUTS visit NASA National Space Technology Laboratories in Hancock County Tuesday morning to present Silver Snoopy awards to five NSTL employees. According to Commander Dick Richards, one of the astronauts who spoke at the ceremony before witnessing a space shuttle engine test firing, the Silver Snoopy is presented to only about one percent of all employees in the space program and its support industries and is given in recognition of active promotion of flight safety and sustained performance of high quality work in those efforts. Included in the award ceremonies were, back row from left, astronaut Dr.

Franklin Chang-Diaz and award recipients H. Richard Ross, gas analysis laboratory, Sverdrup Technology; Herman Watts, NSTL's technical operations division; Gloria Jordan, Pan Am World Services, shuttle support division; Michael Lindstrom, safety engineer, Sverdrup Technology; and Quintus H. Heidelberg, quality assurance specialist, NSTL; and front row, astronauts Richards; Dr. Steven Hawley, deputy chief of NASA's astronaut office; Colonel Loren Shriver; Captain Dan Brandenburg, chief of astronaut office; and Dr. Kathy Thornton.

Rehearsals underway for KNS' 'I've Heard that Song Before'

Kinetic Neo-Skene Theatre is rehearsing for its preview performance of 'I've Heard that Song Before: The Music of Jule Styne,' a splashy, fast-moving musical revue of song and dance capturing the flavor and styles of Jule Styne's music from the 30s, 40s, 50s and 60s. Styne composed the music for shows such as Funny Girl, Gypsy, Gentlemen Prefer Blondes, High Button Shoes, Sugar and Hallelujah, Baby!

Kinard Fite, artistic director of KNS, and accompanied by his musical director Garry Lamb of Bay St. Louis and choreographer Sharon Loiacano, also of Bay St. Louis, have prepared this stage extravaganza, and Fite says that the Apr. 23 performance will be exciting and colorful. The stage of Gulfport High School will become Memory Lane when the brass sounds of 'Let Me Entertain You' open the lively production, followed by such melodies as 'Three Coins in a Fountain,' 'People,' 'The Party's Over,' 'Diamonds Are A Girl's Best Friend,' 'Everything's Coming Up Roses,' 'Five Minutes

More,' 'Don't Rain on My Parade,' and more than 30 more popular songs.

The ensemble has been rehearsing at The Dance Place in Gulfport and includes many of the Coast's favorite stage personalities. The enthusiastic troupe will sing and dance to the Styne music while details about Styne and his life are interspersed by artists portraying Adolph Green, Betty Comden and Lisa Kirk.

This is KNS' first production and precedes their first season to be staged at the Saenger Theatre for the Performing Arts in Biloxi. Although the full season is set and will be announced soon, 'The Wizard of Oz' is already on the drawing board and will be presented on July 22, 23 and 24 as the new theatre's premiere production.

Information regarding season tickets and auditions for 'Oz' will be forthcoming. Tickets for the Styne Revue are $5 and may be purchased at the Shoe Tree in Long Beach, Dr. Patrick Pierce's office in Gulfport, The Smoke Shop at Edgewater Mall and the Peoples Bank in downtown Biloxi.

Assisting Fite with his production are business and stage manager Buzzy Sekul; public relations and organization, Altha Delacruz; finance committee, Martita Pierce; sets, Dexter Pedigo, Joe Matturri and Curtis Matherne; sound and lighting, Ron Luetjen; assistant musical director, Kathy Dodge; costumes, Ouida Matturri; and staff, Iris Leonard and Catherine Joachim.

Sones to attend Mormon World General Conference

Ecclesiastical leaders of local congregations of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormons) will be in Salt Lake City, Utah on April 2 and 3 to participate in the church's semiannual world conference.

Among those who will participate in the conference will be R. Daniel Sones of Hancock County's Bayou LaCroix Community, newly ordained president of the Gulfport Mississippi Stake of the Church.

The Gulfport Mississippi Stake is an ecclesiastical unit comprised of six wards, or local congregations, located in Hancock, Harrison and Jackson counties.

Sones will join other church leaders from around the world to receive counsel and direction given by top church officials.

Participants from foreign countries will listen to the proceedings in their native languages by way of a translation system similar to the one used in the United Nations meetings.

The general membership of the church will hear and see the five sessions of conference via special church satellite and telephone networks.

The local chapels on Klein Road in Gulfport, Forrest Avenue in Biloxi, Martin Street in Pascagoula and McLaurin Street in Waveland are four of more than 1,000 such locations in the United States and Canada equipped with satellite dishes to receive live transmission of the April 2-3 sessions.

Interested persons are invited to view the telecasts at any one of the above addresses. Schedule of sessions is as follows:

Saturday, April 2: 11 a.m.-1 p.m.; 3-5 p.m.; and 7-9 p.m.

Sunday, April 3: 11 a.m.-1 p.m. and 3-5 p.m.

Each of the five sessions will feature different topics, and speakers will be selected from the general authorities of the church, including the First Presidency and members of the Council of the Twelve Apostles.

Church President Ezra Taft Benson, accepted by church members as prophet, seer and revelator, will preside over the conference.

The renowned Mormon Tabernacle Choir will provide music for the Sunday sessions from Salt Lake City.

For more information, interested persons are asked to contact the church in their area as listed in the telephone directory.

Buick introduces mid-year Regal

FLINT, Mich.—Buick Motor Division has introduced the Regal Gran Sport—a special edition of the front-wheel-drive 1988 Regal.

The Gran Sport builds on the new Regal's aerodynamics and ride and handling qualities with the addition of a firmer suspension, 15-inch aluminum wheels with Eagle GT-4 blackwall tires, front air dam and aero rocker panels.

Also included are fog lamps, wide black side moldings, bucket seats, leather-wrapped steering wheel and blacked-out grille, moldings and radio antenna.

This is in addition to the standard Regal features, including 2.8 liter V-6 engine with multi-port fuel injection, rated at 130 horsepower, and four-wheel independent suspension.

To further enhance the Regal Gran Sport, a buyer may order the Four-Seater Package, which includes four bucket seats, full-length operating console in front and center armrest and storage console in back.

"The Gran Sport emphasizes the motorsports heritage of Buick," said Buick General Manager Edward H. Mertz.

"It also emphasizes that the Regal body is the most aerodynamic of any in Buick's history—as Bobby Allison pointed out quite dramatically in winning the Daytona 500 with his modified Regal."

The Regal has a .305 coefficient of drag, among the lowest in the industry, as measured in wind-tunnel tests.

In naming the Gran Sport, Buick re-introduces a name that first appeared in the Buick lineup in 1965 and was used through 1975. A limited-edition Gran Sport was offered in 1986.

The Regal Gran Sport has a manufacturer's suggested retail price of $13,532. The Four-Seater package is an additional $409.

Mertz pointed out that on all Regals special emphasis has been placed on ride and handling, durability, quality and ease of maintenance and servicing, and that the Regal has an exclusive body design—it does not share any exterior panels with any other car.

"The Gran Sport gives the buyer an opportunity to further personalize the Regal," he said. "Buick has become very competitive in motorsports and the Gran Sport helps translate some of that excitement to the cars we offer in the showrooms."

Weekly State Crop Report

Planting begins for forage crop

MISSISSIPPI STATE—Farmers hoping to "make hay" this summer have begun planting warm season forages.

Encouraged by the progress of the cool season forage crop seeded last fall, farmers are planting hybrid bermudagrass for hay and common bermudagrass for grazing. The common grasses are planted from March to June while the hybrids can be planted from early spring into late summer.

"Bermudagrass won't show much growth until April, although it will peep out a little bit before then," said Dr. Lamar Kimbrough, agronomist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

Many farmers are running soil tests on their pastures to check pH and nutrient content before they add lime and fertilizer. Bermudagrass and other forage crops need a soil pH of 6 to produce good hay and grazing.

"Too much of the soil in our pastures is acidic," Kimbrough said. "Farmers may need to lime their pastures to adjust for acidity so the forages will grow."

He said some farmers would need to add at least a ton of lime per acre to change the soil pH to 6 and to allow fertilizer to work. Fertilizer is useless in soil that is too acid.

Spring is peak production time for cool season forages in Mississippi. "The cool season forages are growing good now," Kimbrough said. "Farmers can keep them growing good by putting out adequate fertilizer."

In other agricultural news, corn planting and gardening are underway across the state. Fruit trees in Pike County and other areas in south Mississippi suffered heavy damage from last week's cold freeze but those in Alcorn and other northern counties escaped because they were one to two weeks behind in development. "Plums may have received little damage but the peach crop escaped County areas."

50-foot strip for parking for that facility would not be included in any sale, Stewart said.

According to Stewart, Gulf South wants to use the building to house a skilled nursing facility and would have a 60-day option to obtain a certificate of need, with the board retaining the right to extend the option period.

She added that Gulf South is willing to provide at least $60,000 for renovations and that the building would go on the county tax rolls for the value of the renovations as well as the appraised value.

Four members of the board of supervisors, including Beat One Supervisor Ronald Peterson, who had stated he felt that $350,000 would be the lowest the county could go on the building, agreed that no decision should be made until Board Attorney Gerald Gex has looked over terms of the offer.

The board agreed to take the matter under advisement until Monday. Beat Three Supervisor Roger Dale had ended the discussion, however, with a statement that he would not vote to sell for anything less than $350,000.

Fire district changes name

Commissioners of the former BaySide Fire District report name of the district has been changed to Southwest Hancock Fire District.

The district has acquired a headquarters building on East Choctaw, according to Joyce Garcia, district president.

"We believe ours is the largest fire district in the county and the commissioners feel the district name should reflect the scope of our territory which is considerably more than just the BaySide Park Subdivision," Garcia said.

Bay-Waveland yachtsmen to face illustrious competition at Newport Beach

NEWPORT BEACH.—Ninety-six of the most accomplished sailors in the world of American yachting have been selected by the 12 competing yacht clubs to be crew members in the 1988 U.S. Yacht Club Challenge, which will be sailed in the waters off Newport Beach, Calif. Apr. 6-10.

Designed to determine the best yacht club in the nation by testing the sailing and racing skills of the teams as a whole, the U.S. Yacht Club Challenge is organized and hosted by the Newport Harbor Yacht Club and sponsored by Rolex Watch U.S.A., which has been presenting sponsor of the biennial regatta since its inception in 1984.

While the focus of the event is on teams, rather than individuals, it's difficult to bring together 12 of the country's best yacht clubs without attracting some of the top names in yachting, and this year's field is no exception.

The team from California Yacht Club of Marina del Rey will include two America's Cup veterans—Bill Peterson, sail designer for the victorious Stars and Stripes, and Kim Worthington, a crewmember on the Eagle, one of the top U.S. challengers in the 1987 series.

Bayview Yacht Club of Detroit is sending brothers Bruce and Glen Burton, who have numerous titles to their credit, including the 1986 Etchells World Championship.

Former world champion record-holder Dick Jennings and Rich Stearns, who sailed aboard the Heart of America 12-meter, headline the crew from the Chicago Yacht Club.

Other top-name competitors will include Newport Harbor Yacht Club.

Hosted by:

NEWPORT HARBOR YACHT CLUB
720 West Bay Avenue
Balboa, California 92661
(714) 673-7730

Club's Nick Nadigan who has won the Kennedy Cup in the Collegiate National Off Shore Championships along with teammate Robert Kinney who has crewed on the winning teams for the Star North American and the Soling World Championship.

These and their fellow crew members will compete in a series of five fleet races sailed on a boat-for-boat basis in Schock 35s. The boats, supplied by the Newport Harbor Yacht Club, will be equalized as closely as possible.

The crews have been selected by each of the competing yacht clubs from among their members. In accordance with U.S. Yacht Club Challenge rules, individuals who have skipped a winning boat in the America's Cup, Olympics, Congressional Cup or any other Olympic-class world championship cannot serve as helmsmen, but they may serve in any other crew capacity.

The winning club will have its name and those of the winning crew engraved on the United States Yacht Club Challenge Cup.

First-, second- and third-place clubs will receive Rolex Oyster Perpetual Submariner timepieces, and participation awards will also be presented.

A distinguished panel of international yacht racing judges has been selected to oversee the competition.

The three-member jury will be chaired by Ronald L. Ward of Maryland, an International Yacht Racing Union (IYRU) judge who is also chairman of the United States Yacht Racing Union (USYRU) Committee on Judges.

Ward's colleagues on the panel will be Charles M. Kober of California, an IYRU judge and immediate past president of the USYRU, and IYRU judge Joseph E. Tapert of Michigan.

Selected to serve as alternate judges are William P. Ficker, an IYRU judge and staff commodore of the Newport Harbor Yacht Club, and USYRU judge Arthur V. Strock of California.

In announcing the jury selections, Donald Russell, chairman of the 1988 U.S. Yacht Club Challenge, commented, "We made a concerted effort to select judges of the highest caliber representing a wide geographical area, because, as the list of competitors indicates, the event is truly national in scope. The judges' international ranking will ensure fair and spirited racing and an indisputable outcome."

The complete crew rosters submitted by each competing yacht club are as follows:

Roger Ritzdorf and Allen Andrews.

Project to be dedicated at Pearl River Waterfowl Refuge

JACKSON—Waterfowl winging through Mississippi will soon benefit from a $110,000 habitat project cooperatively sponsored by Ducks Unlimited and the Department of Wildlife Conservation. The project will provide additional feeding and resting areas for wintering ducks and geese.

State dignitaries and Ducks Unlimited representatives will officially dedicate the Pearl River Waterfowl Refuge M.A.R.S.H. project on Monday, Apr. 18 at the Turcotte Research Lab at Ross Barnett Reservoir. Lt. Governor Brad Dye and Speaker of the House Tim Ford will be featured speakers.

Ducks Unlimited donated the special MARSH (Matching Aid to Restore States' Habitat) funds to the state wildlife agency for construction of the new 90-acre impoundment on the Pearl River Waterfowl Refuge. The Department of Wildlife Conservation is supervising the design and construction of the project and will maintain the impoundment as part of the refuge upon completion.

The 1987 MARSH funds available for use in the state equal approximately 7.5 percent of the total $1,040,064 raised last year by 11,000 Mississippi Ducks Unlimited volunteers. Additional projects are expected in the future.

The Pearl River impoundment is the third Mississippi MARSH project and is the largest and most expensive to date. Other projects are located in Lafayette and Quitman counties.

Breaking have with Rapalas

One of the best top water lures to use in spawn, post spawn and pre-summer periods is the Original Floating Rapala, the bait discovered and manufactured by Lauri Rapala of Finland, and which has become known as "The Lure That Fish Can't Pass Up."

According to David Wharton, Johnson Outboards Pro Staff member, "Rapalas or that type of bait is probably the first top water bait the bass will hit in spring. It's an excellent bait. You can control the speed and wiggle of Rapalas and that type of lure by the presentation of it."

"The water temperature has a lot to do with the top water bait you throw," Wharton continues. "A quiet top water bait—a Rogue, Red Fin or Rapala-type bait is real quiet and easy moving—that's usually one of the first ones the bass will hit in the springtime."

"Later on in the year, as the water begins to warm and the fish begin to get more active, the bass react to a top water bait that makes more noise such as the buzz, a slush bait (with propellers on both ends) or chugger-type bait."

In the Normark Rapala Fisherman's Catalog, bass sportsman Roland Martin is cited for using the original Floating Rapala in the spawning and summer periods. His choice is a silver No. 11 which he ties to 10 or 12 pound test line. He casts the lure right on top of the nest and teases the bass to hit it.

For David Wharton, his choices for a top water lure like the Rapala depend on the water clarity.

"Depending on the clarity of the water, a chrome with a black back in water that is clear (of course, 'clear' is a relative term) would be my choice. Gold with a black back is another basic color, and probably one of the best all-around colors you can throw in a Rapala-type bait."

Bay Area Youth Soccer teams earn playoff berths in spring season closeout play

Bay Area Youth Soccer completed the regular spring season this past weekend.

Games were interrupted Saturday morning by rain, however, weather was pleasant Sunday and exciting action developed on the soccer fields in all age groups as teams sought to earn final spots for district playoffs.

Under 12
In under 12, with Take-One Video clinching first place in the division, the number two spot was still up for grabs.

In a makeup game held Wednesday Mar. 23, the Burger King Whoppers defeated Hancock Bank by a score of 1-0. Coach Laurent of the Whoppers stated that "it was the most exciting game played this season."

The goal was scored by Jerry Peoples for the Whoppers. Laurent congratulated both teams on an exciting game.

Goalie Kevin Watts was cited for most valuable defensive play. In regular play Saturday, the Whoppers lost to CPC Design/Building by a score of 7-1. Coach Laurent stated "Steven Sharp scored his first goal of the season. Mike Sanders, Steven Sharp, and Leo Laurent should be recognized for their hustle throughout."

Jerry Peoples, Michael Per-

niciaro, Mark Johnson and Jay Knight should be recognized for their hustle and defensive play."

With Hancock Bank's defeat and CPC Design/Building's victory, CPC Design/Building won the number two spot in the age division, and the opportunity to go to district playoffs.

Under 10
In under 10 play, Coach Tim Kingston's team and Coach Mark Uram's team have won the number one and number two spots for district competition to be held in Gulfport, Apr. 15-24.

Under 8
In Under 8 play, the Gulf Coast Sweepers completed their season undefeated and with the number one spot in the age group. Congratulations to Coach Steve Carver's Sweepers.

However, the real excitement of the day came in the other two afternoon games since three teams were in close head-to-head competition for the number two spot.

In the second game, Coach Richard Flowers' Rotary team defeated the Golden Eagle team which eliminated them from further competition.

Christopher Flowers scored two of the goals for Rotary and Michael Flowers is credited with an assist. Coach Flowers congratulated both teams for a well placed game.

The final game of the day was the most exciting because it was for the number two spot. In a continuous fast moving game, the Charles H. Johnson, Inc., team, coached by Jackie Kidd defeated the Ricks' Trophies team by a score of 3-1.

The Charles H. Johnson, Inc. team thus won the second position for district playoffs. Coach Kidd cited Kile Foster for two goals and for offense in the game.

Christopher Gibson scored one goal. Brentley Ladner was cited for defense and Christopher Gibson and Steven Gibson were named most valuable players. John Day and Patric Lee were cited for a great effort.

Coach Kidd congratulated both teams for their outstanding and exciting play. All of the under 8 teams showed great improvement throughout the season.

Post Season
With the close of the regular season, many teams will continue on in post season games and in District and State Playoffs.

At the end of May, the Bay Area Youth Soccer Association will elect new officers. Notice will be provided prior to the meeting.

Cycles Plus, Downtown Merchants co-sponsoring bicycling adventure

The Bay St. Louis Cycles Plus Bike Club is sponsoring its third annual bike trek Apr. 10. The ride will take cyclists through the countryside of southern Mississippi including a Mennonite community.

Bay St. Louis Downtown Merchants Association is co-sponsoring the event.

"If you enjoy smelling the crisp, clean air of spring, looking at wildflowers along back roads, and really feeling like you're close to nature, then you should hop on a bike and head for Bay St. Louis," said Linda Reed, event coordinator.

"The terrain will be flat to gently rolling so that even the novice cyclist will have no trouble completing the ride," said Reed, co-owner of Cycles Plus Bike Shop.

"Cyclists can choose one of two routes, a 25-mile course or a 62.5-mile course, which is a metric century," Reed added.

Lunch will be provided at the end of the ride as well as refreshments at the rest stops, Reed said.

A sag wagon will cover the course to provide assistance if needed. Routes will be marked, and riders will be supplied with maps.

In addition, tee-shirts will be given to all cyclists, and patches will be given upon completion of the ride.

Reed stressed that helmets will be required for the trek and that cyclists should make necessary adjustments on cycling equipment before the day of the ride.

"We want to provide a relaxing and safe experience for the cyclists," she said.

Registration fees are $15 until Apr. 9 and $18 on the day of the trek.

Cyclists should meet at the Bay St. Louis City Hall between 8 and 9 a.m. Apr. 10. The mass start will be at 9 a.m.

For additional information, contact Reed at 601 467-1706.

June Triathlon set in Jackson

The fourth annual Andrew Jackson Life Magnolia Triathlon will be held June 25 in Jackson.

One of Mississippi's largest triathlons, the event is expected this year to draw over 300 participants from throughout the Southeast and even from as far away as Seattle, Wash.

It will again be held at the Ross Barnett Reservoir and will feature a one-third mile swim, a 21 mile bike ride, and a four mile run.

Race officials say the same course will be used as last year; both the starting and ending of the race will be at Old Trace Park at the Reservoir. A change this year will be the use of a staggered start.

As in each of the three previous years, the University Center Kiwanis Club will organize and conduct the race. The Club has added the corporate sponsor's name, the Andrew Jackson Life Insurance Company, to the title of this year's event.

Proceeds from the race will again be donated to the Drug Research and Education Association of Mississippi, a nonprofit state wide group organized to promote a drug free environment for Mississippi youth.

WTXX-FM radio 94 will provide promotional help.

Once considered exotic, triathlon competition is now thoroughly mainstream, with scores of races held each year around the country.

In addition to a professional circuit, thousands of American men and women of all ages take part as amateurs.

The race draws its name from the Greek "athlon" meaning contest, with the prefix "tri" for the three athletic events in each race: swimming, running, and bike riding.

Race officials will mail registration forms to last year's runners within the next two weeks.

Other entry forms can be obtained after Apr. 15th at Jackson area sporting goods stores; or interested persons can call Bruce Bennett, the race director, at 856-3003 during working hours, or 825-1616 after hours and on weekends.

The University Center Kiwanis Club mailing address is P.O. Box 55472, Jackson, MS 39216-1472.

Bass classic entry deadline approaches

There is only one month left before the entry deadline for area anglers to participate in the $40,000 St. Jude Bass Classic at Sardis Lake on May 29, 1988. Yet, the 16th annual benefit for the St. Jude Children's Hospital is filling the 500 entry spaces at a rapid pace.

The St. Jude Classic this year will distribute more than $40,000 in prizes, $3,000 more than last year. The grand prize, a fully rigged bass boat, will go to a fisherman, not on his ability to catch bass, but how lucky he is in getting his name pulled from a barrel containing all the names of the 500 contenders. Natural Life and Granger Select have donated over $18,000 in prize money and merchandise.

The entry fee this year, which amounts to a 'tax free contribution to the hospital is $75. Entries must be mailed with check or money order to: St. Jude Open Bass Classic, P.O. Box 12404, Memphis, Tennessee 38182 postmarked no later than May 15, or hand delivered to the partner pairing at the Hungry Fisherman's Restaurant at 1600 Munson Rd. in Memphis.

The OLA/SSC combined tennis team's next match is with St. John's High School at the Gulfport Racquet Club.

SSC PLAYER Anthony Sperance lunges to hit a low backhand volley. He won 8-0 in B Boys Singles. STAR STUDENT Mike Vegas of St. Stanislaus High School in Bay St. Louis selected Mrs. Edith Traub of Bay S. Louis as his Star Teacher. Mrs. Traub was Vegas' first grade teacher at Coast Episcopal Day School where she retired in 1981 after some 25 years as first grade teacher. (SSC Photo)

Star student selects first grade teacher

Brother Paul Montero, principal of St. Stanislaus High School, announced that senior Michael Vegas has been named as the school's Star Student by the Mississippi Economic Council's Student Teacher Achievement Recognition Program.

The selection was based on the student's high scholastic average for the first semester and his score on the American College Test.

Vegas selected Mrs. Edith Traub as the Star Teacher because in Vegas' opinion she had made the greatest contribution to his scholastic achievement.

Vegas, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Vegas of Bay St. Louis, is presently in his sixth year at St. Stanislaus. He is a member of the National Honor Society, the Spanish Honor Society, and the Key Club. He is an alpha honor roll student, and he was a member of the President's Honor Roll in his junior year.

He placed second in the state in biology at the Mississippi Science and Math Tournament; and he received third place honors in math, biology, chemistry, and physics at the Xavier Science and Math Olympiad.

He has participated in varsity football, track, and soccer. He earned Gulf Coast All-Catholic Team honors in football, and he was chosen captain of the soccer team.

He was a representative of St. Stanislaus at Mississippi Boys' State. Vegas will study mechanical engineering at Tulane University where he has earned a Dean's Honor Scholarship.

Payne selected Acadia Teacher of the Year

Patricia Ellen Payne, a former Bay St. Louis resident and graduate of Bay Senior High, was recently named Teacher of the Year for Acadia Parish (La.) Schools.

Payne, a 1977 Bay High graduate, is the daughter of Mrs. Louis Moreau of Bay St. Louis and Dr. D.A. Payne of Columbus, Miss.

She has taught gifted enrichment for sixth, seventh and eighth grade students in the Leadership and Enrichment Program for Acadia Parish for four years.

Payne graduated from Mississippi University for Women in 1981 with a BFA in commercial art and received a BFA in art education in 1983. While Acadia Association of Educators, Louisiana Association of Educators, National Educators Association, Professional Association of Teacher of the Gifted and Talented, and the Acadia Association for the Gifted and Talented students.

She is editor of Acadia Association of Educators Newsletter, sponsor of the Crowley Junior High Pep Squad and Cheerleaders, sponsor of the recently organized Crowley Junior High "Just Say No" Club, sponsor of the Crowley Junior High Newspaper staff, and provides volunteer services to several organizations and the handicapped.

When asked what made her an

Bay High Graduate

at MUW she was named a Student-Teacher of the Year.

She received a master's degree in education of the gifted at Southwestern Louisiana in December 1987.

Her selection as Teacher of the Year was made by the faculty and administration of Crowley. She was one of 27 competing parish-wide.

A committee of administrators, teachers, school board members and parents reviewed resumes, school and community work records and philosophies of the 27 before being selected as the Teacher of the Year for the Parish of Acadia for Junior High teachers.

Payne is an active member of the outstanding teacher, she replied, "It started with an excellent public education. I try to live up to several teachers I had while in school in Mississippi—especially Mrs. Emily deMontuzin, who taught me more than was in the text books."

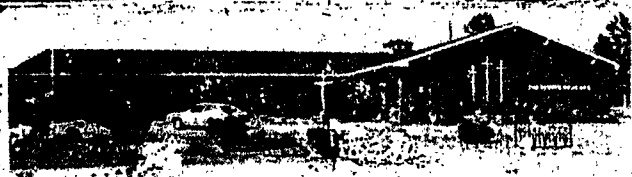

"Mrs. deMontuzin taught how to apply the knowledge to life and she taught in a manner that made learning a pleasure. I often look back on my days at "Bay Hi" for ideas when I am writing my own lesson plans," Payne added.

In further commenting about her school life at Bay High, Payne stated, "Contrary to national polls, I believe that public education in Mississippi is outstanding."

BJHS French students explore Easter customs

French students at Bay Junior and Senior High Schools prepared for Easter with cultural activities of egg pocking and batiking original designs on tee shirts.

The French word for Easter is "Paques," pronounced "pock." Teacher Kathryn Edwards, of French descent from Southwest Louisiana, introduced her students to the custom of egg pocking.

Each member of the family chooses a favorite Easter egg that was found during the egg hunt on Easter morning. The pocking contest then begins.

Two people hold their eggs—pointed end protruding—in one hand and stand elbow to elbow.

On signal they hit the eggs together. The egg that cracks (pocks) is the loser. This continues until only one of the eggs has not pocked and there is a champion.

Students at the senior high have been discussing fashion trends that are set in France, and tried their hand at batiking their original designs, which were required to have at least one French word, on tee shirts.

Batiking is a process that is used to create designs by painting with hot wax, dyeing the fabric, then removing the wax with heat. The students also incorporated tie-dyeing into the designs for added interest.

Calvin Thigpen and Renee Tadmey, and rear, Amy Ryan, Amy Simpson, Cheney Bourgeois, Kelly Oliver, Leslie Diamond, Melinda Howard, Chad Fricke, Archie Speights, Ross Janekla, Charles Mitchell and Orla Clever (Bay High photos)

RON FAVRE, French I student at Bay Senior High, took first place in an Egg Pocking Contest staged among his French classmates.

SEVENTH GRADER Kelly LaFontaine won first place in a Bay Junior High 'Egg Pocking Contest' sponsored by the French class.

ANA SCAFFIDI models a batik tee-shirt which was chosen by her French language classmates as best original design. The creation was executed in the Bay High class's Easter observance of unique French customs. The phrase imprinted on the shirt—"Je t'aime"—translates "I love you."

ELIZABETH LUMPKIN, eighth grader at Bay Junior High, placed first in a French class 'Egg Pocking Contest.'

Tutor training to be offered by Gulfport schools

Community Education Department of Gulfport School District is sponsoring a free Tutor Training Workshop Saturday, Apr. 9 from 9 a.m. to noon.

We will teach you what you need to know to teach another adult to read and write. We need at least 20 more tutors now. All books and materials are free to tutors and students," according to Dr. Norris L. Williams, community education supervisor.

Over 6,000 adults in Harrison County cannot read or write, and an additional 14,000 adults are functionally illiterate.

"We need your help to teach these individuals," Norris added.

"To enroll in the workshop, or if you know of someone or are someone who cannot read or has difficulty reading, contact Mrs. N.V. Williams, coordinator of the Adult Learning Center, at 832-8757, or Community Education, at 896-9014," he said.

ALL SMILES is Catchie Choina, St. Stanislaus music instructor, as she congratulates the woodwinds who received an 'Excellent' rating. They are, from left, Bridgette Dugas, Burney Young, Choina, and Christina Marsh. Other SSC and OLA music students who received an 'Excellent' rating are Phillip Montelara, Nick Christians, Fred Asher, Lisa Jones, Billy Saunders, Alex Bire, William McArthur, Matt Heitzmann, Ben Gleron and Duyen Bremer.

FOUR HORN PLAYERS who earned a 'Superior' rating and a medal are, from left, Chris Echezabal, Jason Miller, William Gilson and Bill Barker. Other St. Stanislaus and Our Lady Academy music students who received a 'Superior' rating and medal at East Central

Solo and Ensemble are John Switzer, Sean Edwards, Joe Coeyas, William Gilson, George Holder, Lori Heavey, Kevin Capel, Michael Leach, Katherine Parcel, Daniel Faget, Ruth Brown, Sean Palmer, Martin Hood and James Kones.

Young musicians rate 'Superior'

In March, 32 beginner band students from St. Stanislaus and Our Lady Academy in junior high and high school participated in Solo and Ensemble held at East Central High School in Hurley.

Seventeen students received a 'Superior' rating plus a medal, and the remaining 15 students received a rating of 'Excellent' for their performances.

Now the entire band program is involved in fund-raising projects to collect $6,000 by mid April so that the high school marching and concert bands can compete in Panama City Beach, Fla. on May 15-18.

The band will be judged parading and performing three concert selections.

The trip not only offers educational benefits but also time for fun and relaxation.

Catchie Crider Choina, the band director at St. Stanislaus, has had a challenging and productive first year beginning with band camp in August, 1987.

She describes the program as being in a building stage since the overall band membership is very young, age-wise.

Three quarters of the students of the high school marching and concert bands are in grades seven through ten.

Students in both St. Stanislaus and Our Lady Academy can take music as an elective for one period a day.

In October, the band competed in its first marching contest in several years. Although they were the smallest marching band with only 15 wind instruments to compete at the Southeast Marching Festival in Tyler, Texas, they received an overall 'Superior' rating.

Jimmy Benigno, drum major, earned a 'Superior' rating for his performance. The Flag Corps and Percussion Section received a rating of 'Excellent.'

The first Christmas Concert in December combined the beginners and the junior high school bands giving a combined total of 55 students performing together.

The band is preparing for a Spring Concert to be played on May 5 at 7:30 p.m. in the St. Stanislaus Resource Center.

Choina is already looking ahead to next year and plans to extend her recruiting program by hopefully teaching beginner band classes at St. Clare and Bay Catholic Elementary Schools.

She wants the program to grow in quality and in quantity which she feels will take a lot of patience and several years.

She would like to expand the Flag Corps and not limit it only to girls. Anyone interested in joining the band or Flag Corps for next year may contact Choina at St. Stanislaus.

Pass Christian High School slates orientation program

Pass Christian High School is conducting an orientation program for parents of 8th grade students who plan to attend Pass Christian High School in 1988-89 (next year's 9th grade).

The program will be Wednesday, April 6 at 7 p.m. in the Pass Christian High School auditorium.

According to Adrian J. Swanier, principal of Pass Christian High School, important information about the high school will be discussed and questions will be answered.

Parents are urged to attend so that the transition from Middle School to High School will be easier for their children.
